

The access to the site is off Long Lane in the west side, off the existing clump of mature trees that naturally screen the building which is located in the central part of the long strip of land.

As in the Shetcliffe scheme, the traffic is organised in a single way system. The roads are laid in a much formal manner, given complementary character to the landscape design.

The approach road runs parallel to the north boundary and then, as in Shetcliffe, the cortege and the guest routes are split for the cortege continuing to the porte cochere whilst private cars head to the car park. The out route from the car park and porte cochere join up before a single site exit point.
